Select Poetry.

"THERE'S NO SUCH THING AS DEATH."

"There's no such thing as death"
To those who think aright;
'Tis but the racer casting off
What most impedes his flight!
'Tis but one little act,
Life's drama must contain;
One struggle keener than the rest,
And then an end of pain.

"There's no such thing as death"—
That which is thus miscalled,
Is the life escaping from the chains
That have so long enthralled:
'Tis a once hidden star,
Piercing the clouds of night,
To shine in gentle radiance forth,
Amidst its kindred light.

"There's no such thing as death"—
In nature nothing dies;
From each sad remnant of decay
Some forms of life arise.
The faded leaf that falls
All sere and brown to earth,
Ere long will mingle with the shapes
That give the flowers birth.

"There's no such thing as death;"
'Tis but the blossom-spray,
Sinking before the coming fruit,
That suits the summer ray;
'Tis but the bud displaced
As comes the perfect flower;
'Tis faith exchanged for sight,
And weariness for power.

History of the 49th Pennsylvania.

Late Captain of Company 'C.'

CHAPTER X.

The New Year—Consolidation of the Regiment—Burnsides' Mud March—Hungry Men—Our old Camps again—Our Brigade Separated—Our new Camp—Furloughs and Soft Bread—Corps Marks or Badges—Gen. Hooker's Popularity—Twenty-second of February—Politics in the Army—Address to our Friends at Home—Preparation for the Summer Campaign.

The new year found us under the depressing influences of our late unsuccessful campaign, and could not have very much in its advent to parallel the holiday times it used to always bring.—We were busied in building anew our winter quarters, in the old routine of fatigue, picket and drill, and the prospect before us scarcely one to much inspirit our troops with hope. Our thinned and failing ranks were not recruited. Our friends at home fought their country's battles by wordy conflict, in stores and bar-rooms, criticising the conduct of the men by whose side they should have been fighting, and complaining of those who were putting them to shame by patriotic example.

On the 11th day of January occurred the most important incident in the history of our regiment. We received an order from the War Department, consolidating the regiment into four companies. The often-quoted, ever-memorable Special Order No. 430, War Department, A. G. O., series of 1862. By this order, all the officers of the regiment thus rendered supernumerary, were directed to be sent on the recruiting service. This consolidation destroyed every company organization in the regiment, and four new ones were formed of the fragments, the supernumeraries being borne on a separate roll, as a sort of organization of themselves. Col. Irwin, Maj. Miles and the Adjutant went north as supernumeraries, and Lt. Col. Hulings was left in command of the regiment. Our old books and records were completed, and forwarded to the proper Departments, and new ones, dating from our new organization, were commenced. Captains Campbell and DeWitt resigned their commissions, and the rest of the supernumeraries, about fifty in number, commissioned and non commissioned officers, departed for Pennsylvania. The consolidation—parent of confusion, and fountain of trouble in our subsequent history—was now complete. In the end, the measure proved beneficial to the regiment, though not in the way it was expected by the authors of the measure.

On the 20th of January, we commenced our march, again to attack the enemy, across the Rappahannock. A general order of General Burnsides' announced to us the vast importance of the coming conflict, and predicted our success from the completeness of our preparation, and the distraction of the enemy by the operations of our forces in other parts of the country. The weather seemed favorable, although it was midwinter, and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of our march to Bank's Ford, where we expected to cross the river. But in the evening it began to rain, and all the night the water came down steadily and rapidly. Next day was the same, and all movements seemed, for the time at least, to be, per force, suspended. The roads soon became so miserable that all transportation became impossible, and sixteen to twenty-four horses were found necessary to move a single piece of artillery. The rain continued, and the mud deepened, on the twenty-second, and finally the movement was abandoned, and the troops notified that they should be ready to move back to our old camp.

Accordingly we commenced our march on the twenty-third, wading through mud. A large detail were busy improving the roads by carrying the small pines from the neighborhood to fill up the mudholes and ditches. Our rations were exhausted, and the trains, mud-bound, unable to supply us.

We were a hungry set of men, and must march to the station at Falmouth before we could get anything to eat.—The marching through the mud was hard toil, and when we arrived at Falmouth, the promised rations were eagerly expected. Hardtack, pork and whiskey were issued to all, and without waiting for more ceremony, we made our dinners off the raw pork, hardtack and whiskey, finding in this instance a verification of the old proverb, that "hunger is the best sauce."

During the afternoon, we made our way to the camps we left a few days before, to find them almost inundated with the copious rains. Our enterprise was ended, and with it, the campaign of the winter. Although the failure was wholly owing to the unfavorable condition of the weather, the very fact of the failure was enough to cause despondency among the troops, and weaken, still more, the confidence which we should have had in our commanding officers. Many influential officers of the army secretly encouraged, in an indirect way, the growing dissatisfaction in the army, and soon a crisis came, when the President, refusing to relieve a large number of officers at the request of Gen. Burnside, relieved the commanding officer himself, at his own request.

Maj. Gen. Joseph Hooker was assigned to the command of the army, Generals Franklin and Sumner being also relieved on his accession to command.—The Grand Divisions were dropped, and corps organizations, alone, recognized.

At this time, our old brigade organization was broken up, and the 6th Maine, 5th Wisconsin and 43d New York left us to join the light Division, a new organization, under the command of Gen'l Pratt, our Brigade commander. We were then Brigaded with the 32nd, 33d and 18th New York, two year regiments, and the 119th and 95th Penn'a. This change also threw us into the 1st Division of the Sixth corps, we having, always before, been attached to the second. We soon moved our camp to a new location, in order to get our brigade together. The term of service of the two years' men being nearly ended, we expected the brigade to be reduced by their discharge from service.

Our new camp was a very favorable one for winter quarters, being well drained, and a dry sandy soil, with plenty of timber for building and for fuel. I presume there are few places that we shall remember longer, or more pleasantly than the camp at White Oak Church.—Here first we came to the actual enjoyment of that great boon to the soldier—furloughs; for Gen'l Hooker's second general order provided for furloughs in considerable numbers, and his third order made hardtack give way to soft-bread. Everything seemed to improve as by magic, and our desponding and demoralized army was soon in perfect decipline, excellent humor, and complete organization. Hooker proved himself a master in organization, and his system remained the foundation of the most important of our after regulations. Gen. Hooker also adopted and assigned badges to all the different corps, divisions and brigades, requiring every man to wear his proper mark, and each headquarters to carry a proper color, an arrangement of very great value in the field. These measures soon increased Gen'l Hooker's popularity to the greatest height, since the days of Gen. McClellan, and he was everywhere loved and respected.

The anniversary of the birth of Washington found us in readiness to pay due honor to the occasion, but the heavens were not propitious, for it snowed all day, unceasingly, and made out door operations almost impossible. We, however, made up for it next day by celebrating it at the camp of the 119th Penn.

About this time there began to be felt in the army the effects of the violent political agitations which filled the press of the North, and occupied, to too great a degree, the attention of the country.—There had long existed a well arranged plan to make General McClellan President of the United States, first by rendering him popular at the expense of the Administration, which, it was thought, would be secured through either his success in a policy opposed to theirs, or through failure in a policy to be attributed to them. Or, secondly; after his fall, by rendering all others failures, in turn, to justify him, and, by a well concerted system of misrepresentation, to make the army believe that the people were unwilling to keep up the conflict by fresh levies, and to convince the people that the army was demoralized, and in danger of mutiny. The tendency of the party, in whose hands the Government was placed, to become anxious for peace, to save themselves from the future responsibilities and risks attending the wielding of power, and shaping of policy, in so critical a time, rendered the political horizon very dark, for the very uncertainty of the future, at such a season, was itself cause for anxiety. As these discussions waxed warm, the army began to be restive under the charges the friends of McClellan found it necessary to make to sustain the theory that he alone was qualified to be its commander, and that it had fallen into unsoldierly practices since his retirement, and everywhere from the soldiers began to be sent out indignant denials, and frank expressions of sentiment. The soldiers of the Forty-ninth, addressed to the people of their native State, whom they represented, the following paper, signed by nearly all the officers and men of the regiment. This was not done in the interest of any political faction, but as a vindication of ourselves, an expression of our opinion, and as a rebuke of those who, under color of political sentiment, were striving to aid our enemies, and divide our councils:

"To the People of Pennsylvania:

The undersigned, soldiers of the 49th Penn'a Vol's, observing, with sorrow and shame, the too evident decline of that patriotic enthusiasm which prompted you, the people of our native State, to send us, your neighbors, sons and brothers, to the defence of our Nation's unity, desire to say one word to you ere you go too far in the fatal course you are pursuing.

"You are told that we are demoralized, dispirited, and ready to revolt.—That is a deliberate slander. The authors of it are traitors to their country—enemies to us. In all we have ever been called upon to do, or to suffer, the thought of disobedience, or mutiny, has never once occurred to us. Permit us to remind you that we are soldiers. That we enlisted—with a full knowledge of all the meaning of that act—in the service of our Government. That we have ever been treated by that Government with all the kindness and consideration possible. That we have ever received all that was promised us, if not always with promptness, yet ever with certainty. The complaints you have heard come from the stragglers and cowards, not from the true soldiers of this army.

"We fight for no General. We follow any one who may be appointed to lead us. We care for no man's glory, and no party's success. While there is war in the land, we belong to the party in whose hands is placed, under the Providence of God, the destinies of our country; for it we fight, and we care nothing at all for the preservation of the interests of those who, without any provocation, have attempted the destruction of all the interests dear to us, (Why should we or you!) of those who are awaiting us, armed for our destruction, whom neither we nor our Government ever injured, who, perhaps, more wise than ourselves, hang, shoot and imprison those in their midst, who dare express even a wish for peace under the old flag.

"You desire peace. You know not, as we do, the horrors of war. We see, and understand, the inestimable value of peace, therefore, we beg of you to give all your energies to the prosecution of this war. In its complete success is our only hope of peace. Its failure is eternal disturbance and war. Nothing so prolongs, and adds to the horrors of war, as a weak and vacillating prosecution of it. No tenderness is so unmerciful to us, as tenderness towards our open or secret foes.

"We cannot believe you have ceased to love the old flag; yet you seem to love the banners of your political factions more. We can scarcely think that you value slavery more than Nationality, Freedom and Union; yet we hear from you more of condemnation of the unavoidable blow leveled at that God forsaken, man-cursing institution, than of the deliberate attempt to overthrow the best and freest of all the nations of the earth.

"You seem to care more for the preservation of an institution which has made poor white men poorer than negroes, and rendered negroes a double curse to the soil they ruin in slavery, and the country their masters, and their master's friends would ruin to keep them in slavery.

"You have tried to make us believe that this war was waged for political purposes, and have tried to persuade us that we are fighting against our interests. We know better. We know that the only men who ever rebelled against this Government, were those who lived by this institution, whose destruction, in the shock of war, you mourn over as though it were something great and good; something precious as liberty, instead of being, as it is—evil, and that only—to black and to white men—to the soil it impoverishes, and leaves to grow up to forest, and to the country it first disturbs by its poisonous influences, and afterwards strives to throttle for its own preservation.

"We have only to say that you may, or may not, as seems best to you, prove false to the allegiance, more sacred than oaths, you incurred when you inherited the blood, and were born under the flag of our fathers.

"We shall not be false to our blood, our birthplace, or our oaths. You condemn the policy of our administration as unwise. Wise, or unwise, its success is the country's only hope—its failure, the country's ruin. If you oppose it, you oppose us. If you fight against it, you will find yourselves fighting against us. You complain that men are deprived of liberty, who incite disaffection, and being too cowardly to act the traitor, talk treason, and incite munity and discontent. We have surrendered our liberty for years, of our own free will, to save our country's freedom, and preserve our country's laws. We are made slaves for a day, and willingly, that we and our children, and you, and your children, and our enemies and their children may be freemen forever. Is it unjust that our enemies should be better treated than we? If so, the injustice is to us, not them. Are we unjust to our enemies? We have ever fought them as open enemies—treated them as prisoners of war—fed their poor, and clothed them, and guarded their property, who refuse a cup of cold water to the soldiers who fight for the Union. Justice to them is punishment the same thing, which it becomes to the felon at the bar.

"You may prove false to your trust—we shall not. Too many of our comrades are buried in Southern soil for us to allow any flag, but the Stars and Stripes, to wave over it.

"'No other flag shall ever float

"We have suffered too much—risked too much—lost too much to falter now, and make it all in vain.

"We warn you and entreat you—entreat you by all the glorious memories of our country's history—by all our hopes for its future, not to dishonor us—not to disgrace your birth—not to desert your flag. We warn you of the fate of the Tories of the Revolution—would call to your remembrance the peace men, who met in convention at Hartford; and we warn you of the future, if we are to share a future with you—we do not mean to allow this nation to be ruined by you, as we do not mean it shall be conquered by our armed foes. You promised your aid when we left you; you have proved false to your pledges as to your country. You promised us sympathy; you expend your sympathy on our enemies, and send us treasonable publications, discouraging and complaining letters. You encourage the cowards who desert our ranks, and believe their lies, who lie to justify the highest crime a soldier can commit. We have borne the burden of the war; you, as yet, we believe, have never paid a tax for its prosecution, and you have not prospered less on account of it. You are cowards who are frightened at a shadow of the sacrifices you would be glad to meet if you were men, worse than which you must encounter, if stouter hearts and truer, ward them not off from you.

"You called us boys when we left you; perhaps we were. But we have demonstrated our claims to the dignity of manhood. Prove you yours.

"To those of you who are true to our country we now appeal—we may never again behold our native hills—may fail to enjoy the fruits of our labors and sacrifices, as many of our companions have. We implore you to stand by our Government. Aid it in all it does, right or wrong. Aid us in establishing its authority, and fortifying its power. When that is done, and we get home from the wars, if it be right, we will help you keep it right; if wrong, will help you make it right. We ask you to fight against the principles of the Northern renegade, not by condemning and insulting your neighbors, whom traitors have misled, but by informing and instructing them.

"Organize as the friends of the Government; but one can exist in this country. We can decide its politics at the ballot-box when the war is over. Do you love slavery? Only love the Union more; it is all we ask. Do you hate slavery? Be patient; it committed suicide when it struck at the Government which had preserved it.

"Stand by our President and his administration in this war. Its cause is the country's. Its failure is our ruin. Stand by us. Send us loyal papers—encouraging letters. Root out the incipient treason at home. Fill up our ranks. Organize to enforce the demands of the Government for men and money. Arrest the deserters to be found among you.—Do as we have done; enlist for the war, and swear to support the laws, and obey the President."

A TOUCH ONE.—The "Fat Contributor" gets off this latest story: "Talk about bedbugs," said Bill Jones, who had been across the plains, "you should have seen some of the critters I met in Idaho last spring. I stopped one night with some settlers, who lived in a log cabin containing only one room and a loft.—When it came near time to go to bed they strung a blanket across the middle of the room, and the settler's family slept on one side of it and gave me tother. I laid down to sleep, and the bedbugs began to gather like lunch-eaters at a free lay-out. I tried to kiver up and keep away from 'em, but the pesky varmints would catch hold of the bed clothes and pull them off from me. They didn't think nothing of dragging me around the room if I held on. I fit 'em till about midnight, and then looked around for some way to escape. There was a ladder reaching up into the loft, and I thought the best way to get away from the bloodsuckers was to climb up thar, so I did. There wasn't any bugs in the loft, and I laid down congratulating myself on my escape. Pretty quick I heard the ladder squeaking as if somebody was coming up. Bimeby I saw a bedbug raise himself through the floor and look carefully around the loft. Soon's he saw me he motioned to his chums below, the blood-thirsty cuss, and cried exultin'ly: Come up boys, he's here!

ON Sunday week, a handsome Bible was presented to a little girl, Miss Mazie Burner, of Columbia, as a prize offered to the Sunday school scholar that would bring the greatest number of new scholars to the school during the year.

A DRUNKARD in Terre Haute tried to climb a fence into his yard the other night, but by mistake clamered over the wall-curb and tumbled down sixty feet, where he was found in about a week.

SIGNS.—When you see a young man and woman walking down street leaning against each other like a pair of badly matched oxen, it is a pretty good sign they are bent on consolidation.

—What is taken from you before you get it? Your photograph.

Odds and Ends.

—A wooding wedding—Marrying a block head.

—Carpets are bought by the yard and worn by the foot.

—"My tale is ended," as the tadpole said when he turned into a bullfrog.

—How to avoid being considered above your business—Never live over your shop.

—"Go to the ant thou sluggard!" yet there are many idle poor who prefer to go their uncle.

—It is folly to eat without an appetite, or continue to eat after it has been satisfied, merely to gratify the taste.

—"Shingle weddings" are becoming fashionable in Iowa. They occur when the first child is old enough to spank.

—Words should be seconded by actions; it isn't enough for a housewife to say to a stocking with a hole in it, "You be darned."

—In Oregon, drinking is said to be a preventive against small-pox, and the present style of invitation is, "let's disinfect."

—The "oldest inhabitant" admits that it is sweet to have friends you can trust, but more convenient to have friends who "trust" you.

—A country magistrate being called on to marry a couple, said: "I pronounce you man and wife," "and may God have mercy on your souls. Amen!"

—In England many farmers support large families on the produce of six English acres of land, besides paying heavy taxes. Many in Germany do even better than this.

—A cynical wag, seeing on the tomb of a wife whom he knew to be a shrew in life, the inscription: "I shall rise again," added the words, "But don't let my poor husband know it."

—"How well he plays for one so young!" said Mrs. Partington, as the organ-boy performed with a monkey near the door, and how much his little brother looks like him, to be sure.

—Ex-Governor Sprague, of Rhode Island, has a fine farm in the south of the state, on which he keeps mamoth oxen. He has now one pair weighing 4,100 pounds, and two others weighing 3,000 pounds each.

—"Have you dined?" said a hungry man to his friend.

"I have, upon my honor," replied he.

"Then," replied the first, "if you have dined upon your honor, I fear you have had a scanty meal."

—A certain little damsel, having been aggravated beyond endurance by her big brother, plumped down upon her knees and cried, "O Lord! bless my brother Tom. He lies, he steals, he swears; all boys do—US GIRLS DON'T.—Amen!"

—"Is your father at home?" inquired the man of the little girl who admitted him. "Is your name Bill?" "Some people call me so," he replied. "Then he is not at home, for I heard him tell John if any bills came, to say he was not at home."

—A three year old neighbor saw a drunken man "tacking" thro' the street "Mother," said he, "did God make that man?" She replied in the affirmative. The little fellow reflects for a moment, and then exclaimed, "I wouldn't have done it."

—Here is a bit of French romance which is edifying:

"Well, Gasten, I'm told you are married old boy."

"It is true, Lewis."

"What sort of a woman is your wife?"

"Why, she is no beauty, but has a good deal of money and a very pretty chambermaid."

—The other day X. called on maddame Q.

"Maddam, can I see your husband?"

"No, sir; he is out at present. He went out to buy a cigar."

"Did he say when he would return madam?"

"No."

"Has he been gone long?"

"More than twenty years."

"Ah, I see,' said X., he wanted to get a good one."

—Pat was helping Mr. Blank to get a safe into his office, and not being acquainted with the article, asked what it was for.

"To prevent papers and other articles which are placed in it from being burnt in case of fire," said Mr. B.

"An' shure, will nothing iver burn that is put in that thing?"

"No."

"Well, then, your honor, you'd better be after getting into that same thing when ye die."

Mr. Blank "wilted."

—The wife of good Deacon—bid farewell to this vale of tears in the goodly town of D—, in Connecticut, leaving the widower disconsolate indeed. After having laid her in her quiet resting place, he ordered a costly marbel to be erected over the loved and lost, and with the name and age, the following inscription:

"Let her rest in peace."

The sculptor, either a bugglar or very careless, found after carving the words "Let her," he had not sufficient room to finish the sentance, so concluded the initials of the other words would convey the meaning. We can imagine the consternation of the worthy deceased so seeing so irreverent a motto on her tomb stone:

"Let her r. i. p."

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, April 28, '69.

ADVERTISING.—The BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN has a larger circulation than any other Republican paper published in the county. Our merchants and business men will please make a note of this.

A Word to Republicans.

In an article published in the first number of the REPUBLICAN, January 6th, 1869. we stated that while we polled 3417 Republican votes at the last October election, there were fully 2400 Republicans in the county who did not take, or support their county paper. These statements were not exaggerated, and we mentioned them merely for the purpose of accounting, in part, for the defeat of the Republican party in this county for the last eight years. We have now sent out 17 numbers of the REPUBLICAN, and we are compelled to publish the humiliating fact that there are yet in the county fully 1400 Republicans who do not take a county paper, Republican in politics. This is all wrong. Our principles are right, or they are wrong. There can be but two sides to the question. Every Republican believes they are right, Every honest man is ready and willing to concede the fact, that it was the Republican party that saved the Government, the Constitution, and our personal liberties. If the Southern rebels had succeeded, all would have been lost. In that great struggle for national honor and life, Stephen A. Douglas declared that, "in this struggle there could be but two parties. Patriots and loyal men on the one side—traitors and sham Democrats on the other." He was right then; and his declaration is just as true at the present day, as it was when that great statesman first uttered it. If he were living now, he would scorn to be found in the ranks, or in sympathy with the party calling itself Democratic, and which is just as disloyal, and as fully in accord with the traitors of the South to-day, as it was all through the fierce and bloody struggle for the nation's life,

These are facts which cannot be denied or contradicted. The leaders of the sham Democracy have made for themselves a black and damnable record that time can never efface—that the bitter tears of repentance can never wash out. Notwithstanding the terrible record of this party, it is still strong. Powerless, it is true, to accomplish any good, but powerful for evil, and that only.

In view of these facts, what is the duty of every Republican in Centre county? Is it not a disgrace to the party, and the county, that fourteen hundred Republicans are found so careless—so derilict of duty, as not to subscribe for their county paper? The devil never rests, but is constantly going the rounds, seeking whom he may devour. So, too, the Democratic party. Its leaders are never idle. They are constantly at work. The Watchman, filled to overflowing with vile and treasonable matter—with encomiums for the contemptible traitor, Gen. LEE, and low abuse and curses for the patriotic GRANT—is sown, brood-cast, all over the county. The minds of the young and the weak are poisoned; the old and hardened sinner is confirmed in his wickedness; and yet, Republicans, the good and intelligent men of the county fold their arms and sleep on, and while they sleep, the enemy sows tares.

What encouragement is there for a Republican Editor in this county to labor day and night in order that he may write intelligently on the questions of the day. The glorious principles of the Republican party, or the great and all important doctrines of "Protection to American labor" while our Iron Manufacturers, farmers, laboring men, and mechanics, do not think worth while to take the paper themselves or to put forth one effort to induce their neighbor to subscribe for it? Will the party ever succeed in this way? Can light, knowledge, patriotism, ever overcome darkness, ignorance and treason by pursuing such a course? Can we ever succeed in obtaining protection to American industry by such carelessness, such inexcusable inactivity? You cannot plead poverty, for there are not 200 Republicans in the county so poor that they cannot subscribe and pay for the—REPUBLICAN. It is not poverty, it is not the scarcity of money, it is nothing but carelessness and want of thought. We know this and therefore we urge upon every Republican in the county the importance of immediate action. How long shall we be compelled to write, that fourteen hundred men in Centre county claiming to be Republicans, do not take their county paper?

THE Spanish Cortes is at a deadlock on the question of an incumbent for the throne. The available candidates have been exhausted, and the Bourbons or a Republic stare the authorities in the face. The ghastly imbecility and monstrous iniquities of the former give strength to the republican interest, yet the inordinate longing after regal customs and court equipages hang out stoutly, and seems ready to play the part of the dog that returns to its vomit, rather than embrace the doctrines that give to men the privilege of self-government.

The South---Bad Advice.

It is about time the yet unreconstructed Southern States should take their fate in their own hands, disregard the bad advice of a false Democracy, and, by cordially accepting the generous terms offered, resume once more their original status in the Union, and commence anew a career of prosperity. We agree with the Chicago Post. That paper says the South ought, by this time, to be wise. It has certainly been trained in a bitter school of experience. We are yet to see, however, whether it has learned anything of value, or whether it will still continue to follow its blind guides, The Pendleton Democracy have issued their manifesto in regard to the action that Virginia, Mississippi and Texas should take in the matter of reconstruction under the late act of Congress. It shows the same old spirit of mischief that has wrought the South so much ruin in the past. Why should the people of the unreconstructed South become Mr. Pendleton's cat's-paw? What has he, or what has his party, ever done for them but advise them to that very course which has most naturally bro't them into their present plight? What pledge expressed or implied, have they ever made the South that they have not broken or been unable to fulfill?—They encouraged it to rebel, but let it fight its battles alone, or with only such dastardly aid as moral treason could render. The South fell in the struggle—fell at the feet of a lenient and magnanimous foe, ready to lift it up into new life and a hitherto unknown prosperity; but the pusillanimous Northern Democracy, true to their past history, and filled with malice and selfish ambition, cried out to it: "Transfer your cause, lost on the battle-field, to the ballot-box; accept no terms that will not place your adversary in a bad light—none that will not irritate you, and furnish grounds of complaint against your conquerors, But sullen and factious—gash your own bodies and swear the Radicals did it, that you may get sympathy and enable us, joined with you, to win the Presidential election." The poor, weak, deluded South listened, and as a consequence suffered immense loss. Still it is asked to again take the advice of these men, who ought to be ashamed to look a Southerner in the face. Virginia, Mississippi and Texas, have now, or soon will have, an opportunity to present themselves, clad in all the habiliments of equal Statehood, at the door of Congress. But they are asked not to do it. Why? Because Mr. Pendleton and his retainers want to keep the question of reconstruction open until after the Presidential election of 1872. Capital is waiting to revive the prostrate industries of these communities, but Mr. Pendleton says: "Let it wait! What are prostrate industries to my prostrate political prospects?—Let them be revived." Let the States in whose behalf the President has recently put forth his personal influence, and in whose behalf he has procured exceptionally beneficent legislation, now choose between the power that desires and is able to help them, and the pretended power that desires only to help itself, and is too feeble to succeed in even that. We are glad to notice that some of the Northern Democratic papers have the good sense, if they have not the patriotism, to advise the three States yet to be reconstructed to accept the terms offered. It is, perhaps, too much to expect that they shall praise the terms. This, though, is compensated by the very beneficence of the terms themselves. We notice also with pleasure—for we wish the South the most abund'nt prosperity and joy—that there are no inconsiderable assurances of Mr. Pendleton's advice being just now of unsavory odor.

SENATOR CAMERON authorizes an unqualified denial of the published statements about his opposition, in executive session, to the confirmation of ex-Governor Curtin to the Russian mission. He made no opposition to a favorable report by the Foreign Relations Committee. When the subject came up in the Senate, he did not, as stated, make a bitter speech against Mr. Curtin, but said that while the Representatives of his State, and in his own opinion, was not the choice of the Republican party of the State, yet as he had been nominated by the President he should not oppose his confirmation or vote against it. He made no assault upon Governor Curtin's character as alleged. He did not call for a division, and none was taken, either standing or otherwise and there is consequently no truth in the story that some sixteen or seventeen Senators voted against Curtin's nomination.

WITHOUT making much noise, the taking of testimony in the Philadelphia contested election cases have been going on for several months before two examiners appointed by the Court of Common Pleas, showing the most scandalous and disgraceful frauds on the part of the Democrats. The Germantown Telegraph says that the work has progressed so far that twenty-one hundred fraudulent votes have been proven, enough even to throw out Mayor Fox and install Tyndale. This carries all the other offices with it. All these too without throwing out any precincts, but it is pretty certain that particular precincts, in which the election was a farce, will be thrown out. This result is a painful subject for reflection.

—Reports from the southern part of Illinois say that the wheat crop is more promising than ever before known, and the fruit crop of all varieties promises abundance.

Suffrage in Pennsylvania.

In 1682 William Penn promulgated the Frame of Government of Pennsylvania, under authority of the charter granted him by King Charles II. In this document the right of suffrage was given, without restriction to the freemen of said province.

In 1701 Penn granted what is known as the Charter Privileges. By this instrument the right of suffrage was broadly given to the freemen of each respective county.

The first Constitution of Pennsylvania was adopted in 1776. The convention that framed that instrument was presided over by Benjamin Franklin. It gave the right of suffrage to every freemen of the full age of twenty-one years. The men of the Revolution, while asserting their own rights and liberties against proscription, were careful to stand fast by the cardinal idea of the political equality of all men.

In 1790 a new Constitution was framed. Thomas Mifflin presided over the convention that made it. This instrument gave the right to vote to every freeman over the age of twenty-one years.

In 1839 the Constitution was revised. John Sargeant presided over the convention. The basis of suffrage was changed to every white freeman of the age of twenty-one years.

For one hundred and fifty-six years, black men, if black they were, voted in Pennsylvania, on precisely the same condition as white men. None of the evils now predicted of black suffrage were experienced. Neither the mental or social equality of the two races was thereby established. Amalgamation, either thro' matrimony or without, was not encouraged. Not a black man was made Governor or Legislator. Social order was not subverted. The Government was not made by white men, for white men, but by all men, for the benefit of all.

It may be remarked, in order to the better understanding of the whole matter, that in 1838 a case was brought before the courts of this Commonwealth to test the point whether a native-born black man, not a slave, was a freeman, according to the true intent and meaning of the Constitution of 1790. The design was, by a judicial decision, to deprive the blacks of the right of suffrage, which they had enjoyed from 1682. All the points were learnedly and ingeniously argued; and at length the Supreme Court, Chief Justice Gibson pronouncing the opinion, in conformity to the pro slavery fanaticism and blindness which then prevailed, solemnly decided that a black man could by no possibility be regarded as a freeman, within the meaning of the Constitution. The Convention that framed the existing Constitution was in session when this judgment was rendered, and it made haste, under the leadership of Mr. Geo. W. Woodward and other members of kindred sentiments, to insert the word white, as qualifying freemen, in the draft of the organic law which they framed.

"Found Dead---Starved Perhaps."

The above is the caption of an article in last week's Watchman. There is nothing in the article worthy of notice, except that, in its efforts to make political capital out of the sudden death of Rosetta Jones, an old colored woman, it not only slanders but insults every citizen of our town, whether Democrat or Republican, christian or sinner. That Rosetta Jones died suddenly in her own house without any one present to comfort her, is, we believe, true; but when the Watchmon asserts that she was "starved to death" it gave publicity to a falsehood, and the editor knew it was false when he penned the article, because he knew that fifteen dollars were in her possession, or pocket when found. This fact proves conclusively that whatever may have been the cause of Rosetta's death, it was not occasioned by starvation. Why should the editor of the Watchman insult and belie the good people of this town? Suppose the old woman had really been starved to death. Would not that fact disgrace the christian and civilized portion of the Democratic party as much as it wl'd members of the Republican party? It is the duty of all men to be kind to the poor. It is especially a christian duty; but the editor of the Watchman, by his brainless and lying fling at the people of our town, admits that there are no christians or philanthropists in the Democratic party. We confess that we have long held the opinion that no intelligent man can be a christian and a Democrat at the same time; but we did not expect the editor of the Watchman to endorse our opinion and confirm us in our belief as he has done in the article referred to. Well, well, an honest confession is said to be good for the soul, and this acknowledgment on the part of the Watchman may open the eyes of some of the honest members of that party, who, up to this time, have believed that it was possible for a man to be a christian and a Democrat.

—Ten of the continental nations of Europe, embracing 130,000,000 inhabitants, have adopted the uniform gold coinage, and Mr. Ruggles, who knows more about it than any other American, says that Germany with its 38,000,000, and Russia with its 68,000,000, will probably come into the arrangement this summer.

It is said no public entertainment can be given in Beaver without a disturbance, the cause of which is attributed to the hard cider in use in the town.

South American States.

Despatches from Rear Admiral Davis, commanding the South Atlantic squadron, indicate a fearful state of disorder, even among the most pretentious of the South Ameeican governments. Very little national pride exists, and, as a consequence, less of national honor. The utmost difficulty has been experienced in tracing the reports of indignities offered this Government, and none of the searches have thus far eventuated in success. Take the mission of the war-vessel Wasp as an instance. She was despatched to inquire into the seizure of the American legation at Asuncion. Besides ascertaining that the legation was actually entered and rifled, and securing enough data to fix the perpetration of the outrage upon the allies themselves instead of the hunted Paraguayans, nothing else could be done, since, as the Brazilian officers alleged, "it was morally and materially impossible under then existing circumstances to allow communication beyond their lines." Thus, at the whim of a representative Power a full commissioned delegation of American officers, under the sanctity of the stars and stripes, as well as the flag of truce, are cut off in their inquiries, and are forced to allow an insult to the United States to go unredressed and the perpetrators unknown except so far as suspicion fixes their identity.

A great storm has been raised against Lopez and paraguay by an ex-American minister; and something discreditable has occurred, th'o doubts exist as to the exact location of the blame. No facts transpired upon which to found an intelligent opinion, yet we have often iterated the supposition that the storm was fanned into existence, at least intensified, by the allied enemies of Lopez. The fact of their having thrown so many obstacles in the way of the Wasp's mission, and having treated the flag of the United States with so little respect, would seem to give the mere supposition the form of a plausible theory, if not to make it the foundation for an open charge.

There is an irresponsibility about the governments of South America which make their plight pitiable in the extreme. They have been lazy about accepting any of the improvements of this and the former century. Contiguous States are often the bitterest enemies, and enmity there means annihilation of one or the other. Internal revolutions are the sure precursors or sequences of any administrative change, no matter what formulas the law may have provided. It is remarkable that South America has produced no great man full of the impulsive spirit of the century, and destitute of the petty jealousy that impels to riot and assassination for the sake of place—a man who could comprehend the situation at a glance, and command the support of an invincible constituency. Bolivars have been too few and far between for the good of this portion of the continent. It will require a strongly cohesive system to subdue the forces there existing. The wild untutored manhood, filled with superstitious hate and ignorant envy, is as untameable as the luxuriant forests and infinitude of vegetation. The Argentine Republic is working its way slowly along, and is, perhaps, the foremost of South American States, thanks to the energy of a few men. But it is not indomitable or aggressive, hence its haste is slow. Too much care cannot be exercised by the United States in selecting ministers for these States. We should not send men there to fill sinecures. but teachers of our codes, models of our citizenship, men filled with enthusiasm, workers in the vineyard of the continent. The example of a few such will save us from entanglement, and heighten the respect due the nation.—Philadelphia Press.

For the Republican.

EDITORS REPUBLICAN.

GENTLEMEN:—In compliance with your kind request to furnish your readers with some account of the origin and history of the "National Asylum for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers," I send you my first letter.

I may call attention, first, to the necessity of an institution of this charac ter, and the duty laid upon the country to provide a place of repose for the brave men who were disabled in the late conflict for the retention of liberties.

It is a most interesting fact that, when the flag was assailed, men of all positions in society buckled on their country's armor, and joined in the ex ultant song, "We're Coming Father Abraham, Three Hundred Thousand More."

At the close of the struggle against treason, no sight was ever grander than when our army, a million strong, "Come Marching Home." No tongue can ever describe the intense joy and satisfaction that filled the hearts of these victorious men when they turned their backs on the land, treason overcome and prostrate at their feet, to meet again and receive the blessing and embrace of loved ones at home.

But in this mighty and exultant host, there were many sad hearts, these were leaving the fields of blood, and were relieved from long wearisome marches and exposure incident to army life; but they had no home to go to—no loved ones to bid them welcome—many of them with broken constitutions and failing health. Add to these the thousands severely wounded during the war, and in many cases had already felt the power of pinching want, and what it was to have no home or friends. Indeed, I may truthfully say, the country seemed full of these brave sufferers—men who had bared their breasts to the storm of villianous treason, and had helped to save the country; but now, sad sight, with shattered bodies, half clad and hungry on the streets, they were, in many instances, compelled to become the objects of charity, and take up their abode in almshouses, &c.

It is possible that it may not be wondered at, that these men were, for a time, lost sight of even by the men and women who stood nobly by the soldier in time of war. The passing necessities of life, however, soon bro't them to the view of the good and true; their hungry cry reached the ear of the country, and the same friends who anticipated and supplied the wants of the soldier in the field, were not long in originating and getting into operation the State Soldier's Homes, where so many were blest and made happy.—After about two years of most earnest toil, it was made evident to the tho't-ful of the land, that something more general, or National in its character, should be done for the country's defenders. Other Nations had gratefully acknowledged the services of their veterans, we could not do less. Soldiers of other nations had fought, for the most part, to retain the power and gratify the ambition of their rulers—ours fought for universal liberty.

In the year 1866, Congress devised a plan by which the great debt to war-worn veterans of the land might be paid in part at least.

In my next I will try to give you this plan, and how it was carried into effect.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
April 23d 1869.

DEAR REPUBLICAN:—We have carefully scanned your issue of the 21st just received this morning for an account of the proceedings of "that Railroad meeting," but we find we were doomed to disappointment once more. We hope however, that the proposed meeting was not a failure—that it is only the record of proceedings which has failed to "come to time" and that next week your readers may be edified by the report of a live and harmonious meeting. The importance of a Railroad between Bellefonte and the East is too obvious to require any disquisition thereon, but if the property-holders along any of the proposed routes expect that the work, which shall enhance the market value of their farms from 200 to 300 per cent. is going to be built for them, without the expenditure of a dollar on their part, they are greatly mistaken. There has never been a time in the history of our country, when such inducements for the investment of capital in works of internal improvement as are now given were offered to our monied men, and this class must not be blamed if they prefer to consult their own interests in preference to those of others. He that would reap must first sow. We trust our Centre County friends will consult their true interests, by offering as favorable terms to the parties, by whom it is expected the road will be contracted, as it is possible for them to obtain anywhere else.

The adjournment of Congress cut off action on most of the bills, granting subsidies of money, or hands, or both, to the many railroads in the West and South, asking aid of this character. At present there is a disposition in Congress to closely scrutinize all bills of this character, as the indulgence heretofore granted propositions of a similar nature, has been notoriously abused in numerous instances. We rejoice to see the present indications of a more careful guardianship of the Public Revenue and Domain in this respect, for while it is but just and proper that internal improvements of a national character should receive some aid from the General Government, it is not fitting that enterprises which will eventually redound to the advantage of private individuals should be carried on or paid for wholly or in a great measure from the Public Treasury. The same remarks will apply to the guaranteeing, by the United States, of the Bonds of those Companies, for it is stated by a high authority that in every instance in which Congress has so "endorsed" for the Roads, means have been, or will be found to make Uncle Sam shoulder the debt.

A lively scene occurred in the Senate yesterday. Sprague, in refering to the speeches elicited from various Senators by his unprovoked attack on Gen. Burnside, said something about a Mastiff and a Mongrel Cur which he once ran across in his travels, pointing his remarks at one of his opponents, and Abbott of North Carolina, who considered himself thus insulted, had the remarks read, and said that as the Senator had skulked away without allowing him a chance to ask whether he referred to him (Abbott) he meant to have a retraction as broad as the assertion was and that if satisfaction could not be procured in the Senate Chamber, it would be had outside. A point of order was raised as to this language, but the President pro tempore ruled that it did not necessarily imply an intention to violate any law and Mr. Abbott disclaimed any affiliation with the duellists code.

The general course of Mr. Sprague has ceased to excite any further astonishment, but his wanton and uncalled-for attack on Gen. Burnside, has raised a storm about the gentleman's ears, which it is safe to say he did not anticipate. Gen. Burnside needs the vindication of no man, and we will only say that, however differently his military abilities my be estimated, there is but one opinion to his bravery, faithfulness, and unselfishness of purpose throughout the whole war, and it is easy to predict what will be the verdict of the people of Rhode Island, when called upon to decide between Sprague and Burnside.

The nominations concerning which no questions have been raised, are about disposed of, and the tug of war has come over the contested ones. Quite a number were rejected last night, including three "Friends" nominated for the positions of Indian agents, Hon. H. S. Sanford, as Minister to Spain, and Hon. J. R. Jones, Minister to Belgium, now filled by Mr. Sanford. Hon. T. J. Coffey, some years since a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, was confirmed as Secretary of Legation to Russia (St. Petersburg.)

Wm. M. Garraham, concerning whose claim of title to lands, so much has lately appeared in the public prints, has entered suit against two of our city newspapers (Express and Republican) for alledged libels, in articles bearing on his claim, laying his damages at $30,000 in each of the suits. In my next I will try to give some description of this famous "claim."

TOWN LOTS FOR SALE, HAVING THE FOLLOWING MERITS.—
They are near the Court House.
They are not on a hill.
They are located on one of the principal streets of the Borough.
They are very low in price.
They will be sold on a reasonable credit.
Half the marketing entering Bellefonte passes the front of these lots, and may be had, which is an important consideration; for, who has not travelled the rounds of the stores in search of butter, &c., and returned home disappointed?
For a residence and boarding house for any who do not wish to loose time goin to or returning from meals, these lots are very desirable. Apply to

THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS.

Some folks are always fretting,
Will their troubles never cease?
Will nothing ever bring them
The blessed boon of peace?

To peace and true contentment
The way is very plain,
And if you'll pay attention
The secret I'll explain.

Smith's home was all confusion,
His wife would scold and fret,
And such a scene I really think
I never shall forget.

His wife would spank the children,
And chase them off to bed;
Set down, and cry as women do,
And wish that she were dead.

She'd call her husband awful names,
A "nasty, horrid man,"
And if he "did'nt change his ways,"
She'd "go right home to 'mam.'"

When Smith returned to bed one night,
He thought the matter o'er;
He vowed he'd end this foolish fight—
Have peace at home once more.

Ere long the neighbors noticed
His wife had changed her tone,
And Smith was "gay and happy,"
For he'd bought an 'Our Old Home."

Now his wife is every smilling,
And all he wrath has flown;
And she calls her husband "darling."
For he's bought an "Our Old Home"

Smith says his "wife has really
The sweetest temper known,
And everything is lovely
Since he's bo't an 'Our Old Home.'"

And now he takes his comfort;
He's found happiness at last,
And sunbeams bright and glancy
Around his way are cast.

EGYPTIAN CORN! EGYPTIAN CORN!

Auspicium melioris avi. Bona fide. Quid pro quo!

THE subscriber offers to farmers throughout the country, the which upon trial, was found to ripen, planted the last of July. It is estimated, from its very prolific qualities, to yield 150 bushels per acre, and weighs, by sealed measure, sixty-five pounds to the bushel. This corn was pronounced by some procured direct from Mr. Jones, our consular agent, directly on his return from Egypt.

It needs no different culture from that of other varieties, and in the South two crops can be raised in one season on the same ground. It grows in the form of a tree, and thirty-four ears have grown upon one stalk, and will average from five to fifteen. For domestic use it is unparalled. When ground and properly bolted, it is equal in color and fineness to wheaten flour. As a forage crop, by sowing in drills or broadcast, for early feed, there is no kind of corn so well adapted to milch cows, and none that will yield half the value of stalk corn.
It can be successfully grown in any State.
I give the most satisfactory references that the corn is, in every respect, what I represent it to be; and further, I am the only person throughout the country who has this corn. Having secured a quantity, I am now able to fill all orders for those desirous of testing it.
TERMS.—In order that all may receive seed, we have reduced the price to one dollar and fifty cents a package. Any person who will get up a club of five will receive a package gratis—Fifteen packages for $10, Fifty packages for $20. One hundred packages for $30. One package will contain enough to plant the following season from twenty to thirty acres; also directions for planting and cultivating.

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

FARM FOR SALE.—Bond Valentine offers his splendid farm, of 195 acres, with in one and a half miles of Bellefonte, for sale. For full particulars, inquire of Mr. Valentine, or at the office of the REPUBLICAN.

COURT WEEK.—Court will be in session this week and next. This will afford the people an excellent opportunity to call at the office of the Bellefonte REPUBLICAN, and subscribe for the paper. No family should be without it. Our weekly market report, alone, is worth the subscription price. Every Republican in the county should subscribe and pay for the REPUBLICAN. Step in gentlemen, we will be pleased to see you.

SWARMING.—"Patent right" men are now swarming over the country, like the locusts of the plains, seeking whom they may devour. They have got to be an actual pest, and should receive no countenance from anybody. Did you ever hear of any one getting his money back on one of the numerous inventions now being peddled around the country? Look sharp before you buy. Jas Cline's Grubbing Machine is no humbug; but just what every farmer, who has land to clear, should have.

DISSOLUTION.—By reference to the advertising columns of the REPUBLICAN, it will be seen that the co partnership heretofore existing between Adolph Sternberg and Simon Brandeis was dissolved on the 17th day of April. The books and accounts of said firm are in the hands of A. Sternberg for collection. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said firm are called upon to settle without delay. The business will be continued at the old stand, by A. Sternberg, that clever merchant, and prince of good fellows.

TO THE PUBLIC.—Rev. P. Coombe will preach on Sunday morning, May 9th, and also in the evening of the same day, in the M. E. Church, in Bellefonte. Subject, in the morning, "The Sinfulness of the License System;" in the evening the subject will be "The overthrow of the License Law, and the 'Whiskey Ring.'" Parents, young men, young women, christians of all denominations, and the public generally, are invited to attend.

Rev. Coombe is one of the most justly celebrated and popular speakers and ministers of the age. A rich treat is in store for the people. Come one, come all. Pews free.

POST OFFICE.—We understand that Jno. T. Johnston, the newly appointed Post Master, has made his arrangements to move the office to the room now occupied by Jacob D. Miller, as a book and stationery store. The post-office and Mr. Miller's book-store will, therefore, be in the same room. Mr. Miller intends to enlarge his stock, and respectfully invites the public to call and see him.—Jake is a clever, enterprising young man, and deserves success; and the fact of the post-office being in his room, will compell nearly every body to call into the book-store, and when once in, Mr. Miller, by politeness and strict attention to business, will endeavor to induce them to buy books and stationery from him.

ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that a sad and painful accident happened at J. F. William's steam saw-mill, in Huston township, on Wednesday, the 21st inst., resulting in a serious, if not fatal injury to George W. Williams. A piece of dry oak slab caught on the teeth of the saw, and was thrown with the force of a gun shot, striking Mr. Williams on the head. A sliver three-fourths of an inch wide, and nearly half an inch thick, penetrated the corner of his right eye, to the depth of two and one-fourth inches.

Dr. Foust, of Port Matilda, was bro't, and extracted the sliver, which he still has in his possession. Mr. Williams is now in a critical condition, being, at times, entirely deranged. He is a worthy and amiable young man, esteemed and respected by all who know him. He has the sympathies of the entire community.

We are indebted, for the facts above stated, to one of the best citizens of Huston township. We cannot let this opportunity pass without enjoining upon our friends, in every township in the county, the importance of reporting for the REPUBLICAN, all the accidents, deaths, local news, &c., that may occur.

"LEFT A LARGE PROPERTY."—"He left a large property," was the closing sentence of a recent obituary. How many reflections it suggests! What a pity he was obliged to leave it! He had taken great delight in collecting it. It was all the fruit of his own energy, industry and good judgment; he had to leave it, and went out of the world as poor as he came in. He might have taken it with him—or rather he might have sent it forward in advance. Every dollar given in humble faith to scatter the glad tidings of salvation, every cup of water given to a disciple, every tear of pious sympathy for the suffering, every gift of his kindly charity to the needy, would have been treasure laid up in heaven. How much more blessed to go to, than to leave a large property.

The man who is poor in this world's goods, but rich in faith, closes his eyes on this life, and goes to take possession of his inheritance. He owned not a foot of land on earth, but for him—

"Sweet fields beyond the swelling flood,
Stand dressed in living green."

His food here was plain and scanty, but there he will eat freely from the "tree of life." His garments here are poor and plain, but there he shall be "clothed in fine robes." He associated here with those who are despised of men, but there his companions will be the "innumerable company of angels," and the "Church of the first born which are written in Heaven."

Capt A. B Hutchinson was elected Representative Delegate to the Republican State Convention—no instructions as to nominee for Governor. Proceedings next week.

ATTENTION.—The Republicans of Bellefonte are requested to meet in their Club Room on Friday evening at 7½ o'clock for the purpose of nominating Candidates for School Directors, Councilmen &c., to be voted for at the Borough election to be held on Monday the 3d day of May. Let there be a full house, that there may be no complaining after the nominations are made.

SODA FOUNTAIN.—Ye lovers of good, cool drinks, we have an item of news for you. F. S. Wilson has his soda fountain in full flow, at his beautiful drug store, in room No 1 Brokerhoff's row. He has it in the best of style, having purchased a marble counter, and every other article necessary to make it beautiful and exquisite. He did not send to the city for his marble, but purchased it from Mr. Felty, thus encouraging home industry. The mechanics, and friends of home industry should, in return, patronize Mr. Wilson. First, because he manifests the right spirit, and is "sound on the goose," and second, because his soda is so much better than whiskey or lager beer.

Phiz, phiz, the fountain's flowing,
The people to the store are going,
And Frank is in a glee.

In crowds they flock into the store,
To hear the fountain phiz and roar,
And take some soda e.

IN TOWN.—Gen. Jas. S. Brisbin and lady arrived in town on last Thursday. The General has been stationed at Fort D. A. Russel, Wyoming Territory, for the last ten months. Last December he had a severe attack of rheumatism, by which he lost the use of his legs, and has been compelled to use crutches from that time to the present. He is now about well, and will soon be able to dispense with crutches.

The General and lady left Fort Russel early in March, for the purpose of visiting their friends in this town and county; but their two children were taken down with scarlet fever on their way home, so that they were compelled to stop off at Cincinnati. They put up at the Gibson House, in that city, where every attention was paid the little sufferers, until the oldest recovered, and death came to the relief of the youngest—little Jennie, on the 16th of April. Little Jennie was buried in the Bellefonte Cemetery on last Friday, the funeral procession leaving the house of D. M. Wagner, Esq., at 4 o'clock, P. M.

The General will remain in town for a few weeks, if the Indians will behave themselves in a manner so as to let him "have peace" for so long a time.

BUSY.—The merchants in town who advertise in the REPUBLICAN. Go ask Loneberger & Henry how many Old Home cook-stoves they have sold since they advertised in the REPUBLICAN. You will be astonished. They are astonished themselves. Why the "Old Home cookstove" goes off like hot cakes, and nearly all have been sold to patrons of the REPUBLICAN. Will our business men open their eyes to these facts, and stick a pin here? You want to sell goods; advertise in the REPUBLICAN. You want money; advertise in the REPUBLICAN. If you want to sell anything; if you want to buy anything; save time and money by advertising in the REPUBLICAN. If you want to keep yourself booked on politics, and the current events of the day, subscribe for the REPUBLICAN, and pay for it in advance, thus will your peace flow like a river, your sleep be sweet and refreshing, and your conscience void of offense—toward the printer, at least. In addition to all these blessings, if you eat your food well cooked—cooked on the Loneberger & Henry "Old Home" cookstove, you wil never have dispepsia, and your wife will never lose her temper.—Under these circumstances you can read the REPUBLICAN with pleasure, and have the proud satisfaction of knowing that all you read in its columns in regard to our business men, and politics, is true.

BOGUS ADVERTISING MEDIUMS.—There are thousands upon thousands of merchants in this enterprising country today who do not advertise, but have tried the experiment at some time. Although it has proved an advantage to every one and a fortune to many who have tried it, there are men without number who wl'd as soon throw money into the street as pay for an advertisement. They have tried advertising, they say, and they reaped no benefit from it. It doesn't pay. And why not? Because they have overlooked the legitimate channel of communication with the public, the columns of first class newspapers, and gone into some novelty, something gotten up to "take in" just such people as avoid newspapers. This class of men subscribe for a thousand envelopes with ten cards printed on the back, and they say "That is a good advertisement," and expect an immediate rush of customers after the first envelope is sent by mail. They forget that nearly all the correspondents of merchants is with other merchants at a distance, and that the envelope is thrown into the waste basket as soon as the letter is opened. Besides, it takes probably a year before the ten thousand envelopes are used, and the advertisement sent into ten thousand hands, while any weekly newspaper will send the same card into fifty to a hundred thousand households during the year for the same price.

Then some conceives the idea of a frame with painted cards arranged very attractively. It is put up in a depot, and strangers returning home read what business men say therein, and say "If I had known it, I should have gone there," but forget all about it when they again visit the town. To dry goods merchants particularly these mediums are worse than useless, while the columns of almost any newspaper, however small its circulation are worth many times their cost, as the class of purchasers to be gained are the ladies, nine out of every ten of whom read all the advertisements that appear in the family paper.

BOOK STORE.—Mr. Livingston has removed his book-store from the old stand, to the room formerly occupied by F. P. Green, as a drug-store, in the Brokerhoff block. He has a beautiful room, and we understand that it is his intention to greatly enlarge his stock and business. His store will hereafter be known as the "Centre County Book and Stationery House."

THE R. R. MEETING AT MILLHEIM.—The Citizens Along the Line Promise to Grade the Road.—Pursuant to a call previously issued, a meeting of citizens of Union and Centre counties, was held in the Town Hall, at Millheim, on Thursday, 15th inst. The attendance was respectable and consisted of the representative men all along the line of the L. C. & S. C. R. R. The utmost harmony and good feeling prevailed, and evidence was given that the citizens along the line of the proposed road were ready to contribute liberally, as soon as any corporation comes forward to aid in putting the project under headway, and insures its completion. There is no doubt, from the feeling that was manifested at this meeting, that the people along the line can be relied upon to bear the expense of grading the road, if the Penn'a Central, or any other company will agree to do the balance of the work.

The meeting was organized by electing the following officers:

President—Gen. Geo. Buchanan, of Centre county.

Vice Presidents—R. F. Hazlitt, Spruce Creek; Geo. Jack, Boalsburg; S. S Barber, Buffalo Valley; E. J. Deshler, Aaronsburg; Amos Alexander, Millheim; Dr. Wm. F. Seebold, Hartleton; Henry Korman, Brushvalley; Mark Halfpenny, Lewisburg; J. C. Motz, Woodward; J. P. Gephart, Bellefonte.

Secretaries—Capt. J. R. Orwig, Mifflinburg; Fred Kurtz, Centre Hall.

The President submitted a few appropriate remarks upon taking the chair.

On motion, Capt. Orwig rose and stated that the object of the meeting was to make some organized effort, on the part of the people of Centre and Union counties, by which this long talked of improvement might be brought to a reality, and that this proposed route was a natural link in a great through route which would sooner or later be constructed through this section of the State, and that to make ourselves safe, we must proceed at once, and build this link, and thus compel it to be taken in as part of a great trunk line which would undoubtedly be constructed through central Pennsylvania.

Hon. Eli Slifer, being called upon, stated that, in the new Lewisburg bridge and laying of the track from the P. & E. road to that borough, the Penn'a Railroad Company had already made a solid investment in commencing this road, and having already proceeded thus far, spending some $200,000 at the most important point, he was confident that company had not done thus much without looking to the ulterior completion of the road, he said he was not authorised to speak for the Penn'a Railroad Company, but so far as his intercourse with the officers of that company extended, he could say that they sympathized with this movement, but he felt some alarm at recent legislation, which looked to the construction of a road, with an eastern terminus on the Sinnamahoning, with the P. & E. Road. Mr. S. said he felt assured that the Penn'a Central would move in the matter, upon liberal action being taken by the people along the line, and suggested the appointment of a committee to confer with that company.

On motion of Wm. C. Duncan, a committee be appointed by the meeting to select a Committee of conference with the aforesaid company, which committee, after a short absence, reported the following:

Committee to confer with the Penn'a Railroad Company:—Col. Eli Slifer, E. B. Islett, Moses Thompson, Geo. F. Miller and Ed. Blanchard.

This Committee is instructed to confer with the Penn'a Railroad Co., as to what aid may be expected from them, and failing to receive a favorable response, they shall confer with any other corporation, and report at once.

The discussion was continued by Messrs. Duncan, Dill, Gephart, Slifer, Kurtz, Swartz, and others.

Mr. S. H. Stover pledged Harris for the grading of the road through that township. Col. Hazlitt pledged the people of his section for the grading of the road from Boalsburg to Spruce Creek, stating that the Messrs. Lyons would grant the right of way through ten miles of their lands free. Assurances were given from Potter, Gregg, Penn and Haines, that the people of those townships would come fairly up to the work. Miles the same. East Buffalo is pledged to grade the road through that township. Limestone tp. same.

Some disappointment having been expressed at the Snowshoe Company not being represented at the meeting, Mr Coburn rose and stated that undue remarks had been made as to its position, that he had just received a note which gave an explanation of their course, which, if he would read, would be satisfactory to the meeting, but for prudential reasons, the said company did not wish publicity to be given to the same at present; however, he was authorized to say, that the Snowshoe Company gives its earnest support to this movement, and would join in at the proper time.

Mr. A. H. Dill offered the following, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting, that immediate action should be taken, looking to the construction, at once, of the L. C. & S. C. R. R., and that we pledge the earnest and cordial co-opperation of the people of Union and Centre counties, along the route of the road, in effecting the earliest possible completion of the same.

It was also resolved that the proceedings of this meeting be published in the papers of the counties interested in the road, and in the Philadelphia papers.—Adjourned.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.—The School Directors of Centre county will meet in convention, on Tuesday, the 4th day of May, for the purpose of electing a County Superintendent—to fix his salary, &c. Every School Director in the county should make it a point to be present.

MRS. EVY, of Harris twp, had her house and furniture destroyed by fire on Thursday afternoon of last week. Nothing of any value saved. No insurance. Her case is deserving the notice of the public, and should receive attention, Mr David Stewart's house in Boalsburg would have burned down the same day but for the efforts of the citizens of Boalsburg to subdue the fire.

JUDGE MEYER.—It appears that his Honor, Judge Meyer, took snap judgment upon the ladies and friends of temperance, by granting the license on Monday before the temperance people had handed in their remonstrance. We have not learned the particulars, but are inclined to the belief that the Court acted with indecent haste in this matter. If the Rule of Court was changed in regard to granting license, why did the lawyers not know it? And why did they not inform the ladies of the fact? Was nobody employed?

EXHIBITION.—The Eagleville Grammar School closed its winter session with a grand exhibition on the evening of the 13th of April, under the supervision of its Principal, Rev. Wm A. Ridge. The entire affair passed off pleasantly and successfully. The pieces were well spoken, especially those performed by the young ladies. The dialogues were amusing and instructive, and the examination of the advance grammar class certainly reflected much credit on itself. The only thing that mared the pleasure of the evening was the tremendous crowd collected. The large and magnificent school room was crowded to excess long before dark, great numbers being compelled to leave for want of seats or standing room.

The valedictory, delivered by a young lady, was splendidly done. Her farewell to her schoolmates and teacher, was fine and affecting. The reply by the teacher was equal to what could have been expected by his most ardent friends. Altogether, it was a pleasant treat to scholars, citizens and spectators, and one, I think, that will long be remembered.

NOW AND THEN.

CORNERSTONE LAYING.—The cornerstone of St. John's Episcopal Church, of Bellefonte, was laid on Thursday last, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The day was most favorable for the purpose. The sun shone bright, and the air was bracing, and nothing was left to be desired in point of weather.

At 3 o'clock precisely, Bishop Stevens, with six clergymen, and the wardens and vestrymen of the church, filed from the house of Mrs. Jas. T. Hale, and went, in procession, to the place of building.—Upon arriving there, the 122d psalm was repeated by clergymen and the people, responsively. The Bishop then, in few words, declared the object of their coming together. Prayer was then offered, after which the Rector of the parish, Rev. B. McGann, deposited in the corner stone several books and papers which he described. Among these were a Bible and a book of common prayer; the names of the Bishop and Clergymen officiating; also the names of contributors to the building fund, &c.

The Bishop then proceeded to lay the cornerstone. Striking it three times with the mallet, while invoking the three persons of the Holy Trinity, declaring that the edifice to be there erected, was to be devoted to the worship of God, according to the principles of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The choir then sung an appropriate piece, after which Rev. Mr. Cullen, of Bloomsburg, and Rev. Shinn, of Lock Haven, delivered excellent and appropriate addresses, and were followed by the Bishop in a few remarks of great force and beauty. Another hymn, and prayer concluded the services, the whole lasting about an hour. There was a large and attentive congregation present throughout the proceedings.

The church is to be of blue limestone, and brown stone. These materials, in proper combination, will produce a very pleasing effect. The edifice promises to be one of great beauty. It is the Gothic style of architecture, forty feet in width, by eighty feet in length, with a noble tower, and other proper appointments.

It is located in the best part of the town, and will greatly beautify the neighborhood around it. It is expected to be finished about Christmas, at an expense of about $20,000.

FREE EXHIBITION.—Something new under the sun.—The magical workings of the greatest wonder of the age—the American Combination Button Hole Overseaming and Sewing Machine are now daily witnessed, by numerous spectators, at the store of Zimmerman, Bro's & Co. The mechanism of this machine is perfect, and simple; is easily managed, and not liable to get out of order. Does stitching, hemming, felling, tucking, cording, braiding, quilting, gathering and sewing on, over-seaming, embroidering on the edge, makes button and eyelet holes in the most perfect and substantial manner.

It should be in every family. Don't forget to call and see it. No charge for witnessing its operations. Instructions to purchasers of machine given free of charge. ZIMMERMAN, Bro's & Co.

From the Germantown Telegraph.

Cultivation for Indian Corn.

Corn is a cereal which requires a deep soil to produce a large crop. The ploughing should therefore be deep and well done. I have generally found two yoke of oxen to make the best team; for two years I have used two yoke of oxen to a heavy plow for turning the first furrow and one yoke to a light subsoil plow to follow them, without throwing the soil out of the furrow but simply to loosen it up.

Do not be afraid of turning up "that yaller stuff." but if the subsoil is cold and clayey, it is better to not bring to much of it to the surface; in this case the depth must be increased by degrees.

If the soil is stiff, let the field be first harrowed around and around the way the plow went, diagonally in both directions, and lastly backward and forward, parallel to the longest side.

If the corn is to be put in with hoes, mark out with a plow across the face of the hill, if the ground is rolling; then select a good, stiff pole twelve feet long, four feet from each end attach two ox-chains, which shl'd have one end dragging on the ground. Let a man and boy or two boys take each an end of the pole, and pass up the fence at right angles to the marking out of the plow, take care to keep the chain next to the fence parallel to the same, and about fout feet distant. In coming back, the end of the pole should be kept over the last chain mark. A common ox-chain, say ten feet long, will make a plain mark if the ground is in proper order.

Cover the corn carefully, and never more than from 1½ to 2 inches deep. If planted deeper than this, it will be longer coming up, and after it comes up it will grow very well until it is three or four inches high, when it will remain stationary for ten days or two weeks. By examining we will find that the first joint is below the surface of the soil, also that the roots are decaying, while new ones are being thrown out from the joint; these new roots require some ten or fifteen days for complete formation, and during this the plant remains stationary as far as growth is concerned. As soon as the new roots are fully formed the old ones will entirely disappear, and the growth will proceed as usual.

From actual experiments with grains taken from the same ear and the same parts of the ear, I have arrived at the following:—Corn planted one inch deep came up in eight days; that planted 1½ inches deep required nine and a half days; and that 2 inches deep, ten days; 2½ inches deep, eleven and a quarter days; 3 inches deep, twelve days; 3½ inches deep, thirteen days; 4 inches deep, fourteen and a half days; 5½ inches deep, eighteen days; 6 inches deep, twenty-one days. The last lot came up and grew until about three inches high, when it remained stationary for a long time and finally died.

As soon as the rows are visible, the hoe-harrow should be passed twice in the middle of the row, but should not go to near the corn until it is three or four inches high. When the corn is about six inches high, remove the right-hand back-tooth of the hoe-harrow, and substitute for it a piece of boiler plate shaped like the mouldboard of a plow. This will hill the corn but not so high as if done with a plow.

Do not work the corn when the ground is too wet, for nothing is gained by it. Work it often and well, for it will be a good investment. As soon as the corn is large enough to be broken by the swingletree, the latter should be shortened to one foot or eighteen inches.

GEORGE P. RODGERS.

Eagle Farm, March 15, 1869.

SCURF OF THE LEGS OF POULTRY.—In some of the larger breeds of fowls—and as we have observed especially with the Brahmas, on reaching two or three years—the legs occasionally become much swollen, and covered with a scab of scurf. This not only injures their appearance, but retards thrift.—Such birds grope about, unhealthy and inactive. A prominent physician in this city, also deeply interested in the breeding and physiology of our various breeds of domestic animals, has ascertained by microscopical investigation, that this scurfiness or scab is the work of an insect—a scaly kind of louse. He gives us the following receipe, which he has found an effectual remedy: 20 grains of carbonate of soda; 1 ounce of lard; 1 dramch of sulphur. Applied occasionally on the legs, till a healthy appearance is restored.—Practical Farmer.

For the Republican.

HOW TO BAKE BEANS.—After washing your beans place them in a pot of cold water over the fire, let them boil until cooked through, but not soft, then place them in a bakepan with a piece of raw salt pork in the centre, distribute over the whole two or three table spoonfuls of molasses, then fill the pan with cold water and place them in the oven for three or four hours until brown on the top, when they are ready for the table. The oven should not be hot enough to burn them, and water should be added when occasion required it during the baking. Beans cooked any other way are not fit to be placed on the table. So says BEANS.

Feeding Whole Grain to Cattle.

It is an expensive system of management to feed whole grain to any kind of animals. All kinds of cereal grain are provided with a tough hull or skin, which the digestive powers of most animals will not dissolve; consequently, if the skin is not broken before the grain enters the stomach, the kernels will usually pass off with the droppings without affording the animal that swallowed the grain any more nourishment than fragments of wood of equal size.

During the month of August last, the writer procured a quantity of horse manure for top dressing strawberry plants, and in a few days after the mulch was spread around the plants the broken kernels of oats vegetated, so that the entire surface of the ground appeared as green as a lawn.

This fact showed conclusively that much of the grain had never afforded the animals that swallowed it any nourishment at all.

Young horses having sound and sharp teeth will sometimes crush every kernel. But old horses with poor teeth will frequently swallow half their mess of oats without breaking the skin of the kernels.

When mills are at a distant and people will persist in feeding whole grain, it will always be found advantageous to soak the grain at least twenty-four hours before feeding it.

Suppose, for example, a teamster is accustomed to feed a team eight quarts of Indian corn and oats, at each feeding, say three times a day. Let the grain be put in a pail and covered with warm water every time the team is fed. This plan would require three pails when a team is fed three times daily. Warm water is far better than cold water, as cold water in cold weather, will soften the grain but little. Teamsters may rest assured that it will pay well for all trouble to soak grain before feeding it.—N. Y. Times.

Potatoes—Seed Required for an Acre.

The general rule laid down by farmers is to allow ten bushels to the acre. This is very indefinite. The amount of seed required for an acre depends on the mode of planting, (whether in hills or drills, with cut or whole potatoes,) the kind of seed used, and the nature of the soil.

Every man of my acquaintance who attempted this year to plant an acre with cut seed in drills, using ten bushels, fell short form one-third to one-half. If you plant in hills, three feet apart each way, you will have 4,840 hills to the acre. One medium sized potato in each hill, according to Mr. Harrison's plan, would require about 20 bushels. The average number of medium-sized potatoes in a bushel being about 240. If you plant in rows, three feet apart, and place your sets twelve inches apart in the rows, you require 14,520 sets. By measuring a peck or a bushel of the average size of your potatoes, and counting them, you can soon calculate the number of bushels you require.

Unless each hill yields as much as three stalks in a row, it would be less profitable to cultivate in hills than by drill.

Just weigh two or five pounds of seed for each method, and make the experiment, next season, for yourself. Acurate experiment is required, in order to successful farming.

One barrel Early Rose cut to single eyes will make about 1400 eyes, and will plant an acre that will produce one hundred bushels worth five dollars per bushel, or $500, next season. Cost of potatoes and cultivation, one hundred dellars; leaving a net profit of four hundred dollars per acre.

FEEDING STOCK.—Every returning spring the cow and horse doctors in the country have plenty of business; but as soon as the grass starts so that the cattle can get a good bite, their occupation is gone; and why? Simply because green food is natural medicine, and more effective than the cattle doctor's drugs. Perhaps you have neglected to raise root crops; if so, try and exchange with your neighbors, or purchase a supply, and do not say that your cattle have done well without them, and will do so again, because there is a chance of failing, and the fault will be your own. Would you like to be kept on bread and butter and a little cold water for six months? If not, please remember that your animals have a keen taste for good things as well as yourself; and if you do not believe it, try the old grey horse or brindle cow with a peck of sweet apples some cold morning, and if they do not thank you for the luxury, then it is because you are too dumb to undestand animal language.

FOR FARMERS SHORT OF HAY.—If the farmer is short of hay he should resort to the straw stack, the straw of which, if cut the proper length by the aid of a straw cutter, dampened with water, and meal, or even buckwheat or wheat bran sprinkled over it, at the rate of a quart of meal to a half bushel of shortened straw, will furnish a quality of food relished by horses, cattle or other stock, that will keep them in better health and at less expense than by purchasing hay. —Rural New Yorker.

IT is said the best strawberry plants come from the third and fourth sets of runners, and that the first and second sets should be cut off.

A MAN in Geneva recently sold tallow coated with butter for a good article of butter.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE OVER SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.

In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at

TO THE WORKING CLASS.—I am now prepared to furnish all classes with constant employment at their homes, the whole of the time, or for the spare moments. Busines new, light and profitable. Fifty cents to $5 per evening, is easily earned by persons of either sex, and the boys and girls earn nearly as much as men.—Great inducements are offered those who will devote their whole time to the business; and that every person who sees this notice, may send me their address and test the business for themselves, I make the following unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied with the business, I will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing to me. Full particulars, directions, &c., sent free. Sample sent by mail for ten cents. Address,

AGENTS WANTED.

LIBERAL INDUCEMENTS OFFERED TO GOOD MEN TO SELL MACHINES.

THE WONDER OF THE AGE,

THE FARMERS PRIDE,

THE STUMP & GRUBBING MACHINE.

It will do more work in one day than Ten Men with grubbing hoes can possibly do, and leaves no roots or stumps to sprout up in the spring. After grubbing with this Machine the farmer can cut his grain or grass the first season with the Reaper or Mower.

It does its work effectually. Any person or persons desirous of making money, will do well to
